READY FOR DISTRIBUTION.—City Mayor Dan Neri Lim announced over the week that school supplies (right photo) intended for public school children all over the city are ready for distribution anytime this week. This was the mayor's answer to several queries from parents regarding the distribution of school supplies. The mayor clarified that its distribution was delayed as procurement of the same was subjected to normal auditing procedures. The giving of school supplies was one of the mayor's flagship programs since assuming office in 2004. Part of the program is also the distribution of school uniforms. This time, however, the city decided to give money to parents to give them the option to buy the clothing material for the school uniforms of their children. This was being resorted to prevent parents from complaining that some of the RTVS were either too big or too small for comfort to intended recipients. FOTO SEN GUING-GUING

CAUGHT RED HANDED.—This red-plated pick-up which is reportedly assigned to District Engineer Teodoro Castillo of the First Highway Engineering District was found last week to have covered its government plate. Whether it was for security reason that the district engineer decided to conceal its red plate is for him to explain why. If the move was deliberate, then he has a lot of explaining to do why he covered the red plate with an opaque object making it hard to distinguish whether it's a private car or a government-issued vehicle.
